CHIANG FIGHTS ON

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is now held in low esteem at Washington. So the statement he has just issued, after a long silence, is not likely to carry much weight there.

Nevertheless, Chiang made some points that should receive consideration. He says a Communist victory in China will mean that Communism will spread all over Asia. That may well be. He also says a Communist Asia will make another world war inevitable. That could be, too. Certainly these are potentialities that cannot be ignored.

Chiang is basing his own course on this very thesis. He intends to keep on resisting—partly because he believes the Nationalist cause is not hopeless, but chiefly because he is convinced of an eventual clash between Russia and the United States. He hopes to hold out long enough to be rescued.

Once before, Chiang followed a similar strategy of waiting and eventually American power freed China from the Japanese conqueror. Whatever his faults, he has determination and endless patience. And he may be right in believing that the present situation is not beyond repair.

At the moment, all Chiang asks is that the United States "re-activate its policy of giving moral support to the Chinese government in its fight against Communism." He does not say that this will be enough, and obviously it would not be enough. Yet it is not much to ask in the light of the past and surely the United States is under no obligation to give aid or comfort to the Chinese Communists.

WHERE, NOT HOW MUCH

The Supreme Court of the State of New York has been asked to fix the penalty for erecting a building where it shouldn't be at the rate of $50,000 an inch.

It all comes about because a national drug-cigar store firm has suddenly discovered that its two-year-old building in New York City encroaches on the street line in some places by three-quarters of an inch to an inch. Naturally, this puts the drug firm in dutch with the city, although the latter has had nothing to say as yet.

Building owners say it is the fault of the contractors, who were supposed to have engaged the services of a surveyor. If the surveyor had been on the job and peeped through his transit correctly, this would never have happened. So, they are filing suit against the contractors to the tune of $50,000 an inch.

What the court will decide will be interesting to note, but it can be pointed out that the price per inch mentioned by the plaintiff is not as big as it may appear. The property is located about midtown, where real estate carried the going market price of previous times.

A comparable error, if an error was committed, hereabouts would probably be settled amicably. In this supercharged and complex economy, the error isn't so important as where it is committed.

A Sham Exposed

Since there really is no good answer, the Marshall Plan experts were in somewhat of a hole. Congress kept pressing the question. Eventually there was prepared and turned over to Congress a breakdown which accounted for all of the proposed spending.

In round figures, two and a half billions were to go to the general foreign-aid purposes which everyone hears about, and a billion and a half was to be used for the lesser-publicized "dumping" program. This is the process by which the Marshall Plan is used to keep food prices high in this country. Uncle Sam buys up enough of certain foods to create an artificial shortage. Formerly he destroyed this "surplus." The furor over burning millions of pounds of potatoes, when housewives were paying famine prices for spuds at the grocery store, forced the Government to find something else to do with these foods. What is being done under the Marshall Plan is to "dump" them on some foreign country, whether it needs them or not—and call it "relief."

You might make a mental note that according to the official figures, more than three eighths, or about 30 per cent, of the "foreign aid" in the Marshall Plan is really going for the purpose of keeping your grocery bill high.

Now, what the Senate Committee did was to accept this Marshall Plan report on the basis of its meaning just what it said it meant, and to tie the "dumping" money down for that use, no other.

This was done with the following amendment, sponsored by Senator John L. McClellan, of Arkansas—a Democrat, by the way:

"The amount required to finance the procurement of surplus agricultural products (determined surplus by the Secretary of Agriculture) of the kinds and in the quantities set out in the ECA budget justification submitted to the Senate shall be available only for such financing."

The Senate theory is, of course, that since the Marshall Plan experts had listed some two and a half billions of dollars as being enough for their non-dumping activities, and since they had asked for a billion and a half for this dumping, the thing to do was to give them just what they asked for—but hold them to it. Maybe you'd expect to find the Marshall Planners flattered to have the United States Senate accept their "estimates" in good faith and take them seriously.

If so, you don't know the bureaucratic mind. The moment the news got out that the Senate had "frozen" the food-price-support end of the appropriation to that purpose only, the heavens rocked with wails of anguish.

The burdens of the Marshall Plan officials' protest was, in effect, "but suppose we want to use the money for something else?"

That's just the point. If they want money for something else, why don't they ask for it openly—instead of trying to fool Congress in the matter?

The New York Times put the matter clearly, though with an attempt at tact, when it said: "It was never the intention of the ECA to adhere rigidly to these estimates even as to total expenditures on a given commodity let alone on an individual country basis."

From their screams of rage at being taken seriously by the Senate, one would infer that the Marshall Plan bureaucrats never intended to adhere to any of the "estimates" they gave to Congress.

Their first arguments against the restriction were almost childish. "Suppose some country decides it doesn't want the goods we plan to dump there," they said in effect. "What are we going to do? Dump it anyway? Maybe a lot of this part of the appropriation is simply going to be wasted!"

The answer to that is so simple that no one except a bureaucrat would ever be likely to overlook it: If the spending isn't needed—just don't spend the money, and let it go back to the U. S. Treasury!

What the Marshall Plan boys seem to have had in mind was to get Congress to give them the appropriation for the price-supports, and then actually use it for other purposes, entirely different, which Congress would be unwilling to approve.

The implication is that a good deal of the billion and a half would actually be spent buying heavy machinery and production line equipment to help low-paid or slave foreign labor compete against American working-people.

There are two further implications: One is that the new "embargo" announced by Sir Stafford Cripps of England against a long list of American products is going to throw the whole Marshall Plan out of gear. The other is that the request for the price-support funds was just a bluff on the part of the Marshall Planners—who expect to see this whole field taken over by some other branch of the Federal government under some version of the Brannan farm-subsidy scheme.

But obviously, the Marshall Plan boys told Congress they wanted the money for one purpose, when they actually had something else in mind.

And are they burned up at being caught in their own trap?

Pope's Excommunication Order Points Up Struggle Between Vatican, Kremlin

tion weapon was used was against members of the Communist-sponsored Czech "Catholic Action," which the Holy See charges is a subversive organization attempting to split the church.

Although Vatican spokesmen stressed that the decree was "immediately in effect," a dignitary was quoted as saying that Catholics who professed Communism because of coercion were not affected.

Similarly, some sources said that Catholics who, in view of the stern order, renounce their Communist ties, will be allowed to re-enter the fold.

Recent estimates place the number of Catholics in the world at 330 million, but there is no possible way of knowing how many are Communists or party followers.

The excommunication was believed aimed mainly at European nations behind the Iron Curtain, where Communism is seeking to make heavy inroads into the ranks of the faithful. The order is also expected to have strong repercussions in France and Italy, both of which are predominantly Catholic and have tremendous Communist enrollments.

contending that Mr. Pierro was establishing a business, dealing in women's wearing apparel. A group of these residents appeared at one of the public meetings held to discuss Bristol's proposed zoning law. They asked that action be taken by the zoning commission, but were informed that the law had not as yet been enacted. Since then there has been considerable contention and finally action was brought last evening on the grounds that Pierro had obtained a permit for the porch enclosure, but had not obtained a permit to demolish the wall between the enclosure and the house. It was on this basis that he was fined. It was intimated, however, after the hearing, that the borough would give him a permit for demolishing the wall.

Residents of the block objected to business being set up in the block and this led to considerable feeling between them and Pierro.

Exchangeites Spend An Evening at Scout Camp

Bristol Exchange Club, together with Newtown and New Hope Exchange Clubs, visited Bucks County Boy Scouts' Camp Ockanickon at Point Pleasant, last evening.

Raymond Hoxworth, Scout executive, and Fred Kemmerer, president of Bucks Co. Council of Boy Scouts, greeted the Exchangeites and were hosts for the evening.

A chicken dinner was served in Palmer Lodge dining hall at seven o'clock by the Boy Scout committee, after which Carl Foell conducted a tour of inspection of the different camp sites which consist of accommodations for approximately 102 boys who are enjoying facilities and activities at the camp this week.

The main event was a water carnival in the camp's excellent swimming pool, starting at 8:30 and lasting until 10:30, during which time a large percentage of boys participated. All events were enthusiastically received.

Fine Exhibition Given By Local Aeromodelers

Last evening, Aeromodelers meeting was held outdoors and took the form of a flying session. Although a large part of the evening was spent in search of a flying site, one was finally found and the club members put on several fine exhibitions.

William Rasmussen flew two successful control line stunt models of original design; Thomas Pearson demonstrated his endurance glider, the same one which won first place in the Johnsville July 4th contest; David Mathias, William Smayl, Thomas Spitzo and Gordon Pearson flew conventional type stunt models; Warren McQuaid test flew a new Class A speed model that showed great speed. It was an improvement on the same model which won for him first prize in the junior speed event at the Johnsville contest. John Serra flew a beautiful scale model of a "Vought Corsair."

Next week's meeting will also be an outdoor one. Members are to gather at the meeting room at seven p. m., for transportation to a flying site.

The next model contest to be attended by Aeromodelers members will be at Allentown on July 31st. All types of events are scheduled and merchandise as well as trophies will be given the winners.

CHIANG FIGHTS ON

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is now held in low esteem at Washington. So the statement he has just issued, after a long silence, is not likely to carry much weight there.

Nevertheless, Chiang made some points that should receive consideration. He says a Communist victory in China will mean that Communism will spread all over Asia. That may well be. He also says a Communist Asia will make another world war inevitable. That could be, too. Certainly these are potentialities that cannot be ignored.

Chiang is basing his own course on this very thesis. He intends to keep on resisting—partly because he believes the Nationalist cause is not hopeless, but chiefly because he is convinced of an eventual clash between Russia and the United States. He hopes to hold out long enough to be rescued.

Once before, Chiang followed a similar strategy of waiting and eventually American power freed China from the Japanese conqueror. Whatever his faults, he has determination and endless patience. And he may be right in believing that the present situation is not beyond repair.

At the moment, all Chiang asks is that the United States "re-activate its policy of giving moral support to the Chinese government in its fight against Communism." He does not say that this will be enough, and obviously it would not be enough. Yet it is not much to ask in the light of the past and surely the United States is under no obligation to give aid or comfort to the Chinese Communists.

WHERE, NOT HOW MUCH

The Supreme Court of the State of New York has been asked to fix the penalty for erecting a building where it shouldn't be at the rate of $50,000 an inch.

It all comes about because a national drug-cigar store firm has suddenly discovered that its two-year-old building in New York City encroaches on the street line in some places by three-quarters of an inch to an inch. Naturally, this puts the drug firm in ditch with the city, although the latter has had nothing to say as yet.

Building owners say it is the fault of the contractors, who were supposed to have engaged the services of a surveyor. If the surveyor had been on the job and peeped through his transit correctly, this would never have happened. So, they are filing suit against the contractors to the tune of $50,000 an inch.

What the court will decide will be interesting to note, but it can be pointed out that the price per inch mentioned by the plaintiff is not as big as it may appear. The property is located about midtown, where real estate carried the going market price of precious stones.

A comparable error, if an error was committed, hereabouts would probably be settled amicably. In this supercharged and complex economy, the error isn't so important as where it is committed.

A Sham Exposed

Since there really is no good answer, the Marshall Plan experts were in somewhat of a hole. Congress kept pressing the question. Eventually there was prepared and turned over to Congress a breakdown which accounted for all of the proposed spending.

In round figures, two and a half billions were to go to the general foreign-aid purposes which everyone hears about, and a billion and a half was to be used for the lesser-publicized "dumping" program. This is the process by which the Marshall Plan is used to keep food prices high in this country. Uncle Sam buys up enough of certain foods to create an artificial shortage. Formerly he destroyed this "surplus." The furore over burning millions of pounds of potatoes, when housewives were paying famine prices for spuds at the grocery store, forced the Government to find something else to do with these foods. What is being done under the Marshall Plan is to "dump" them on some foreign country, whether it needs them or not—and call it "relief."

You might make a mental note that according to the official figures, more than three eighths, or about 30 per cent, of the "foreign aid" in the Marshall Plan is really going for the purpose of keeping your grocery bill high.

Now, what the Senate Committee did was to accept this Marshall Plan report on the basis of its meaning just what it said it meant, and to tie the "dumping" money down for that use, no other.

This was done with the following amendment, sponsored by Senator John L. McClellan, of Arkansas—a Democrat, by the way:

"The amount required to finance the procurement of surplus agricultural products (determined surplus by the Secretary of Agriculture) of the kinds and in the quantities set out in the ECA budget justification submitted to the Senate shall be available only for such financing."

The Senate theory is, of course, that since the Marshall Plan experts had listed some two and a half billions of dollars as being enough for their non-dumping activities, and since they had asked for a billion and a half for this dumping, the thing to do was to give them just what they asked for—but hold them to it.

Maybe you'd expect to find the Marshall Plan flattered to have the United States Senate accept their "estimates" in good faith and take them seriously.

If so, you don't know the bureaucratic mind. The moment the news got out that the Senate had "frozen" the food-price-support end of the appropriation to that purpose only, the heavens rocked with wails of anguish.

The burden of the Marshall Plan officials' protest was, in effect, "but suppose we want to use the money for something else?"

That's just the point. If they want money for something else, why don't they ask for it openly—instead of trying to fool Congress in the matter?

The New York Times put the matter clearly, though with an attempt at tact, when it said:

"It was never the intention of the ECA to adhere rigidly to these estimates even as to total expenditures on a given commodity let alone on an individual country basis."

From their screams of rage at being taken seriously by the Senate, one would infer that the Marshall Plan bureaucrats never intended to adhere to any of the "estimates" they gave to Congress.

Their first arguments against the restriction were almost childish. "Suppose some country decides it doesn't want the goods, we plan to dump them," they said in effect. "What are we going to do? Dump it anyway? Maybe a lot of this part of the appropriation is simply going to be wasted!"

The answer to that is so simple that no one except a bureaucrat would ever be likely to overlook it: If the spending isn't needed—just don't spend the money, and let it go back to the U. S. Treasury!

What the Marshall Plan boys seem to have had in mind was to get Congress to give them the appropriation for the price-supports, and then actually use it for other purposes, entirely different, which Congress would be unwilling to approve. The implication is that a good deal of the billion and a half would actually be spent buying heavy machinery and production line equipment to help low-paid or slave foreign labor compete against American working-people.

There are two further implications: One is that the new "embargo" announced by Sir Stafford Cripps of England against a long list of American products is going to throw the whole Marshall Plan out of gear. The other is that the request for the price-support funds was just a bluff on the part of the Marshall Planners—who expect to see this whole field taken over by some other branch of the Federal government under some version of the Brannan farm-subsidy scheme.

But obviously, the Marshall Plan boys told Congress they wanted the money for one purpose, when they actually had something else in mind.

And are they burned up at being caught in their own trap!

Pope's Excommunication Order Points Up Struggle Between Vatican, Kremlin

tion weapon was used was against members of the Communist-sponsored Czech "Catholic Action," which the Holy See charges is a subversive organization attempting to split the church.

Although Vatican spokesmen stressed that the decree was "immediately in effect," a dignitary was quoted as saying that Catholics who professed Communism because of coercion were not affected.

Similarly, some sources said that Catholics who, in view of the stern order, renounce their Communist ties, will be allowed to re-enter the fold.

Recent estimates place the number of Catholics in the world at 330 million, but there is no possible way of knowing how many are Communists or party followers.

The excommunication was believed aimed mainly at European nations behind the Iron Curtain, where Communism is seeking to make heavy inroads into the ranks of the faithful. The order is also expected to have strong repercussions in France and Italy, both of which are predominantly Catholic and have tremendous Communist enrollments.

Fined for Violation Of Building Code

contending that Mr. Pierro was establishing a business, dealing in women's wearing apparel. A group of these residents appeared at one of the public meetings held to discuss Bristol's proposed zoning law. They asked that action be taken by the zoning commission, but were informed that the law had not as yet been enacted. Since then there has been considerable contention and finally action was brought last evening on the grounds that Pierro had obtained a permit for the porch enclosure, but had not obtained a permit to demolish the wall between the enclosure and the house. It was on this basis that he was fined. It was intimated, however, after the hearing, that the borough would give him a permit for demolishing the wall.

Residents of the block objected to business being set up in the block and this led to considerable feeling between them and Pierro.

Exchangeites Spend An Evening at Scout Camp

Bristol Exchange Club, together with Newtown and New Hope Exchange Clubs, visited Bucks County Boy Scouts' Camp Ockanickon at Point Pleasant, last evening.

Raymond Hoxworth, Scout executive, and Fred Kemmerer, president of Bucks Co. Council of Boy Scouts, greeted the Exchangeites and were hosts for the evening.

A chicken dinner was served in Palmer Lodge dining hall at seven o'clock by the Boy Scout committee, after which Carl Foell conducted a tour of inspection of the different camp sites which consist of accommodations for approximately 102 boys who are enjoying facilities and activities at the camp this week.

The main event was a water carnival in the camp's excellent swimming pool, starting at 8:30 and lasting until 10:30, during which time a large percentage of boys participated. All events were enthusiastically received.

Fine Exhibition Given By Local Aeromodelers

Last evening, Aeromodelers meeting was held outdoors and took the form of a flying session. Although a large part of the evening was spent in search of a flying site, one was finally found and the club members put on several fine exhibitions.

William Rasmussen flew two successful control line stunt models of original design; Thomas Pearson demonstrated his endurance glider, the same one which won first place in the Johnsville July 4th contest; David Mathias, William Smyrl, Thomas Spitzo and Gordon Pearson flew conventional type stunt models; Warren McQuaid test flew a new Class A speed model that showed great speed. It was an improvement on the same model which won for him first prize in the junior speed event at the Johnsville contest. John Serra flew a beautiful scale model of a "Vought Corsair."

Next week's meeting will also be an outdoor one. Members are to gather at the meeting room at seven p. m. for transportation to a flying site.

The next model contest to be attended by Aeromodelers members will be at Allentown on July 31st. All types of events are scheduled and merchandise as well as trophies will be given the winners.

Radio Star Lives On Bucks County Farm

a five and dime store clerk in "Hogan's Daughter," quit high school in Hartford, Conn., to join a stock company that had come to town. She played stock in Hartford for several weeks, then persuaded her parents to let her live with relatives in New York. While in that city she obtained another stock company job.

After several years in stock companies, Shirley made her Broadway debut with Humphrey Bogart in "Hell's Bells." She has been in many hit comedies since. Among them were "Philadelphia Story," "Three Men on a Horse," "My Sister Eileen," and most recently "Goodbye, My Fancy."

While in her Bucks County farmhouse, Mrs. Baker likes to putter around the house. She says who would have been an interior decorator if she hadn't become an actress.

The actress has brown eyes, fair skin and red-gold hair which she always has worn short and curly despite changing hair styles. Small, slim and energetic, she spends her leisure time driving around Bucks County looking for antiques for the house. The home is furnished in early American except for an 18th Century drawing room.

Church is Purchased For Class-Room Use

PLEASANT VALLEY, July 14—Two new classrooms will be ready for use in September at Springfield Durham High School, here. The former Mt. Carmel church adjoining the present high school has been purchased by the school district, and is being converted into two modern classrooms.

The addition will make possible a commercial department and a music room for the largest student enrollment in the history of the school. Shower facilities are also being provided for the health and physical education departments.

The school board approved the purchase of a school bus for educational trips and other pupil transportation. Springfield Township school board is a member of the Fallsides joint school board. Other members of the joint board are Bridgeton township, Durham township and Tinicum township.

The State Department of Public Instruction and the Bucks County School Board have recently approved the application of the joint board to construct a junior-senior high school through the State School Building Authority. Several of the existing buildings will be expanded to consolidate the elementary schools of the area.

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Smerian B. Brown
Pastor
Bethel A.M.E. Church
Bristol, Pa.

Eternal God our Father, deliver us from the corroding peril of sin and the bewildering peril of selfishness. Give us a truer sense of value that we may count the worth of men above the worth of things. Grant us the noble will to give, ever knowing that our gifts from Thee are greater than our merit. Endow us with the kingdom's blessing of Christ's love and Thy spirit forever. Amen.

MOLL, DOMINICK HIT HOME RUNS IN YOUTH LEAGUE

"Bill" Moll and Joe Dominick hit home runs last evening as the Crofton A. C. won its sixth straight game of the Bristol Youth League, beating Bell's Aces, 9-2, on the Crofton field. In the other league games, Newportville Indians beat Fourth Ward, 8-4, and Bristol Township defeated Fourth Ward, 9-5, on the Township field.

Moll cracked out his home run with Dominick on base in the third inning while Dominick's blow was made with two out in the sixth with "Jim" Marshall and Ralston Hedrick on base.

Lane Conn and "Jim" Morrell pitched for the winners with Rigby and Wilson on the mound for Bell's Aces.

Carl Anderson was the winning pitcher in the Township-Fourth Ward fray with Pierce Burton leading the batters with a double and pair of singles.

Dave Proveau, Langhorne High twirler, did the hill work for Manager Herman Steubing's team against Fourth Ward and held the Warders to two hits. Proveau took off to a bad start as he hit a batter and walked four in the first frame to give Fourth Ward a 3-0 lead.

Harry Bowman led the batters of the tilt with four singles in four trips to the plate.

PAIR OF DOUBLES SPOIL PITCHING DUEL

A pair of doubles by "Pete" Caputa and "Jack" Walker spoiled a beautiful hurling duel between "Mike" Graver and two pitchers of the Fire Company No. 1 team last evening on the Estates' field. The Firemen were victorious by a 2-1 count.

Up until the beginning of the seventh, the count was deadlocked at 1-1 when Caputa and Walker hit their successive two-baggers.

The fire-eaters had seven hits off Graver while the two twirlers for the winners gave up seven hits. Estates had two runners in scoring position in the second and had two runners on base in the fifth and sixth innings but could not score.

"Bill" Cochran started on the hill for the fire-fighters and was relieved by Manager "Ed" Kornichuk in the fourth inning. Estates made four of their hits off Cochran and Sam Barnes' single in the sixth was the only safety off Kornichuk, who had seven strikeouts in four innings.

Four of the No. 1's hits were doubles and accounted for both their tallies. Two singles by Balaz and Jack Labrie and an error gave the Estates team their marker in the first.

ST. ANN'S BOWS TO LALOR A. C. IN TEN-INNING GAME

St. Ann's A. A. tossed away its game in the Trenton Industrial League last evening, bowing to the Lalor A. C., 5-4, in 10 innings on Memorial Park field.

Four costly errors enabled the Jersey team to score four of its five runs, giving them three earned runs. St. Ann's had three earned runs and one unearned. The winning run was scored in the extra frame when Dutko singled past Barbetta, went to second on Klim's sacrifice, moved to third when Bob Schultheis flied to right and crossed when Joe Sallustio dropped Don Nugent's fly after making a one-handed catch.

Fred "Bobo" Schultheis, although tagged for ten hits, was very effective in the pinches. He had fine control as he walked but one bats ter.

Last night's tilt seemed to be a family affair as Fred Schultheis, Sr., was managing the Lalor team, assuming this role for the first time, and another son, Bob, was the left fielder. Bob teed off on two of his brother's pitches for base hits.

St. Ann's had nine hits off the two Lalor hurlers, Art Green and Irwin Penrose. Green was knocked out of the box in the sixth inning. Penrose was the winning chucker.

St. Ann's scored a run in the second on Bert Barbetta's long triple to right and an infield out. It scored again in the fifth on an error, and hits by Lou Sassi and Tony Palumbo. In this inning, Dutko robbed "Bobo" Schultheis out of a triple or home run by a sensational one-handed catch. Two runs by the "Saints" in the sixth enabled them to tie the score. The runs were scored on a walk to Schneider, a stolen base, a hit by Sallustio, Fred Barbetta being hit with a pitched ball, and "Lou" Sassi's hit. St. Ann's still had the bags loaded when the side was retired.

American Steel will be the foe of St. Ann's, Sunday afternoon, on Memorial Park field.

Lineups:

	ab	r	h	e
Lalor A. C.	39	5	10	20
St. Ann's	39	5	10	20

FIFTH WARD WINS A WILD GAME

Fifth Ward and Jefferson A. C. played a wild game last evening on Memorial field as the Warders beat the Jefferson team, 12-11, to gain points in the Bristol Softball League.

Four runs in the last half of the sixth canto gave the Fifth Ward team the victory after Jefferson went ahead, 10-8, in the gruelling contest. The four runs came as the result of four hits, two passes, and a fielder's choice.

"Buster" Monachello was the starting moundsman for the Jefferson team and he was replaced by "Johnny" Giambella in the sixth inning. Giambella was charged with the loss.

The winning pitcher was Henry Liberatore, who relieved "Pete" Mancini in the sixth frame.

Despite its 12 runs and 9 hits, Fifth Ward did not have an extra base hit while Jefferson had two doubles and a triple.

Lineups:

Hollywood Beauty Parade

By Max Factor, Jr.

HOLLYWOOD. (INS) — If you drastically alter the color of your hair, you will soon find if you haven't known it from the beginning, that this will also necessitate a change in the make-up colors used. If you are a natural brunette, for instance, and suddenly become a blonde you can't attractively go on using the same make-up shades with your new blondness that you correctly did when your hair was darker.

This same principle of make-up color change holds true for hair shades which have been naturally altered by becoming gray or white. Women who have pure white hair or are gray blondes or gray red-heads, and have fair or creamy skins, can advantageously conduct their cosmetic grooming with face in the lightest amber shade. For these hair types, if the complexion is medium, sallow or a light olive, a powder in the amber-rose range is advisable. If the skin is a deep olive, one of the darker amber shades is glamorously effective. Rouge and lipstick in the light clear-red, light blue-red, or light rose-red range will appear to advantage on any of the hair-color and complexion combinations mentioned.

Gray brunettes and gray brunettes can logically follow the same identical face powder that prescriptions given above, according to the natural complexion tones evident.

But the gray brunette should use rouge and lipstick in the medium clear-red, blue-red, or rose-red range, and the gray brunette the darkest color tone of clear-red, blue-red, or rose-red.

If hair grayness is not very much in evidence, and the main color effect offered by the hair framing your face is that of the original color rather than the gray, continue using the make-up shades which were in correct color harmony for your hair and complexion before the gray started to appear.

If your hair isn't graying, but you are confused about the precise classification of its color and consequently aren't sure about what make-up shades to select classify your tresses as the lighter type of the two in mind. Thus if you don't know whether you are a light brunette or a dark blonde, assume that the latter is the case when it comes to choosing make-up tints.

In cases of borderline skin coloring, prescribe your make-up for the darker of the two complexion tones which you judge might apply to this classification.

Fortune smiles on those who make a habit of reading Courier Want Ads.

Smart, Comfortable Shoes

These pretty sandals, with flexible leather soles and uppers made of multi-colored kid, are a good choice for summer evenings, late-day dates.

By HELEN FOLLETT

HAVE you been looking over the new offerings in footwear? They are exciting. Nothing like having the little trotters smartly cased unless it is having them comfortably housed, which is really more important.

Teacher would call your attention to pumps. They are tops at the moment. They make for foot health—of all things, as if a woman ever thinks of that!—and they also make for elegance. Flexible leather soles, more room at the ball of the foot, new lasts to insure snugness and support without strangulation, all these elements make the pump an all-enclosed pleasure.

Practicability is not the only quality. Pumps can be beautifully decorative. You can have buckles on them. Remember Bobby Shafto who went to sea, had silver buckles on his knees? Pretty Bob-betties will have them on their shoes, and right proud they will be, you bet you!

Or, maybe she will have touches of beading or buttons or dainty bows, or other creations of master designers. Oh, yes; extra! extra! Pumps are available in any heel height required. But don't fail to see that they carry flexible leather soles that will yield to the movements of your pedals.

Warm weather means that you should think of foot care as well as foot looks. If yours feel as if they were running a temperature, bathe them with tepid water, spray with cold, dry with brisk friction, massage with mineral oil. This practice will impart coolness and ease. Also, the free use of oil is a good way to keep calloused spots from forming. If you wear the right shoes, however, you will not be cursed with these ills, or corns either.

If the feet perspire rub them with a foot powder, sprinkle some inside your shoes. After washing your stockings rinse in several waters as soap deposits may set up a skin irritation.

State Refuses Light At Sellersville Corner

SELLERSVILLE, July 14 — The State Highways Department has refused to install a traffic light at the Main street and Temple avenue intersection here it was announced at the July meeting of Sellersville Borough Council. The state rejected the plea for installation on the grounds that traffic is not enough at the crossing to warrant a light.

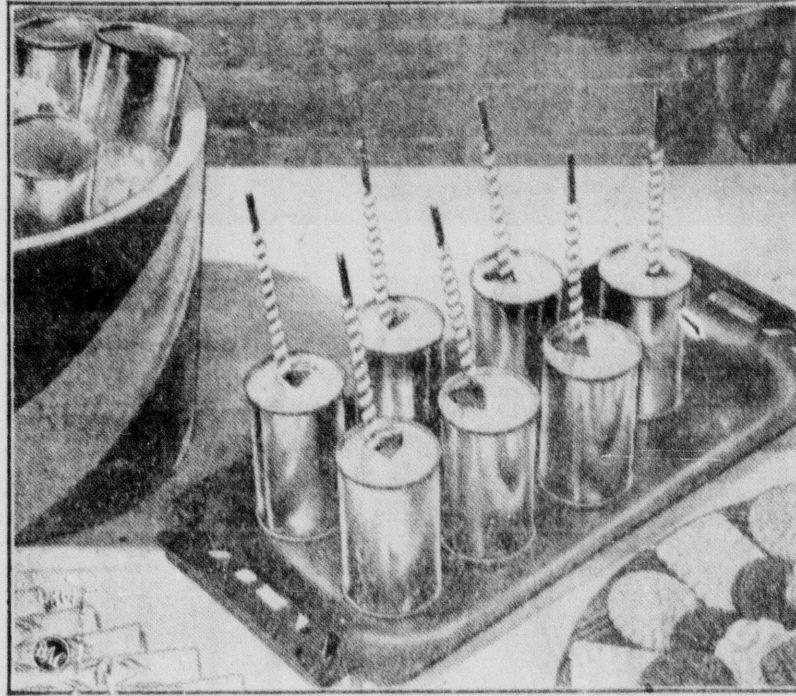

Council had desired one because of the numerous accidents and traffic violations that occurred there. A checkup has revealed that an average of 952 motor vehicles pass through the intersection every hour, and less than 100 vehicles enter the intersection from Temple avenue during the same time.

William Walter, superintendent of the water department, informed council that water in the reservoir is twenty-four inches below the overflow and said the water situation was not acute.

Thirty-five arrests were made for highway violations in the borough the past month, Chief of Police M. P. Vetter reported. Fines collected amounted to $94 for the borough and $20 for the state. The police committee stated that the recently purchased police car is now in service.

Building Inspector Frank Hallman issued two permits, one to Earl Fargo to make alterations to his home and another to Roy Lawrence for the construction of a garage.

"Pick-Me-Up" Cans of Citrus Juice Beat Summertime Thirsts

EASIEST way in the world to satisfy that feeling of thirst which attacks young and old alike all summer long is to keep a good supply of individual-drink size cans of cooling citrus juices on ice. Available now in a variety of flavors . . . orange, grapefruit, and blended grapefruit and orange . . . the little 6-ounce cans will prove economical, handy and popular for all members of the family.

Better than pink circus punch in view of the high Vitamin C content, you'll find that small fry go for these little cans of sunny fruit juice. Chilled, the individual portion of citrus juice is an ideal beverage for children's birthday parties.

RICE IS WRONG

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

OCCASIONALLY, while discussing the care and feeding of their families, housewives are heard to remark that, while some recipes sound delicious, they "have too many ingredients." Actually, a check of the average meal's ingredients would soon show that most of them are herbs, spices and condiments which any cook keeps close at hand for ready use.

These condiments, given a prominent place in all meals recommended by the A & P Service for Homemakers, often make the difference between an ordinary meal and an exciting, flavorful and memorable one.

For example, although salt, pepper, vinegar and onions are used frequently for seasoning, the use of wine or herb vinegars in the preparation of salads and fish sauces provides a subtle, yet definite difference. Dill, a favorite of Scandinavian cooks in preparing fish, may well be used more often by others. A pot of fresh dill on the window sill, or the dried seed as it comes from the grocer's may be used. Beer is another seasoning used for fish as well as meat and cheese dishes.

Ginger is often used by Hungarian cooks to rub over the meat for roasting in addition to salt and pepper. A tiny pinch is all that is needed. It may also be used to flavor gravy, or, as a substitute, ginger snaps may be used for both flavor and thickening.

A pinch of nutmeg adds to the flavor of many vegetables, but only enough to point up the vegetable's natural flavor should be used, not so much that its taste becomes noticeable. Spinach is exceptionally tasty when served this way.

Although the list of condiments is long and fascinating, none of them are difficult to obtain. The Ann Page line of spices and seasonings provides a ready and reasonable source of supply for the average housewife. Often, blending several of these condiments, according to the ingredients of the meal, will prove surprisingly effective.

Years of research pioneering guarantee LUCKIES ARE A FINER CIGARETTE!

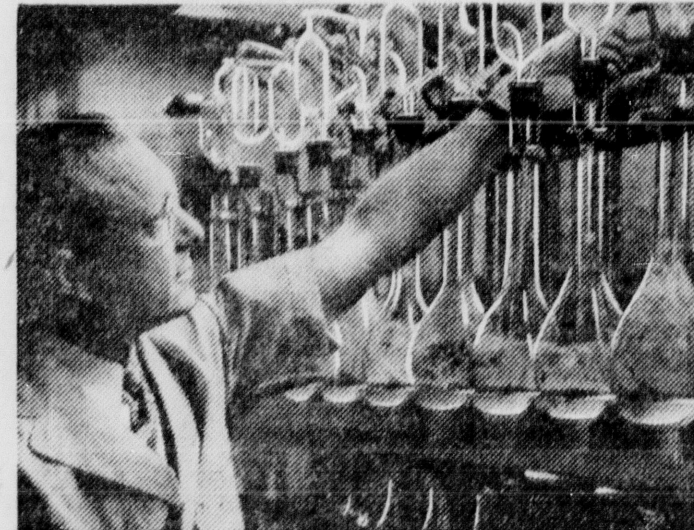

Constant research at Lucky Strike's famous cigarette laboratory—America's largest and most completely equipped—is devoted to giving you a finer cigarette!

THERE is no finer cigarette in the world today than Lucky Strike. Here's why: Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. And every step in the making of Luckies—from before this fine tobacco is bought until the finished cigarette reaches you—comes under the watchful eye of the largest and most completely equipped cigarette research laboratory in America.

For many years, the famous Lucky Strike laboratory in Richmond, Virginia, has been a center of cigarette science and technology. In this remarkable building you can see a fascinating collection of scientific instruments—microscopes, spectrophotometers, balances, projectors, humidification chambers, and many other complicated and costly machines.

Working with this array of scientific equipment are more than 60 highly trained specialists—chemists, biologists, engineers, physicists. They work on tobacco, on finished cigarettes, on paper, foil, cellophane and even printing inks. For Lucky Strike scientists have for years delved into cigarette research on an extensive scale.

Today, because of the miracle of modern science, Lucky Strike is a finer cigarette.

Testing tobacco. Samples from every tobacco-growing area are analyzed before and after purchase. These extensive scientific analyses, along with the expert judgment of Lucky Strike buyers, assure you that the tobacco in Luckies is fine, light and mild. No wonder Luckies are a finer cigarette.

Luckies stay fresh. After Lucky Strike cigarettes have been packaged, they must be tightly sealed to remain fresh. Here you see the cellophane seal being tested for air-tightness. Such instruments are in constant use at every plant.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By John Harms
(INS Penna. Farm Editor)

HARRISBURG, July 14—The Agriculture Department has alerted farmers to the financial loss of high moisture content wheat.

Millers and other wheat buyers are becoming more wary about accepting wheat with high moisture content, the department said. The safety point is 14 per cent moisture.

High moisture wheat heats in a short time when it is stored in bulk and extra handling, plus artificial drying necessary are costly and rob the farmer of a higher financial clearance.

One comparatively simple way to determine the moisture content of wheat, familiar to county agents, can be used to determine the right time to combine.

The test requires only ammonium chloride, obtainable in drug stores, a teaspoon and a bottle. One ounce of ammonium chloride is sufficient for about six tests.

Take from the wheat field to be combined 20 heads of wheat, rub out the grain from each head with dry hands and mix the wheat thoroughly. Put 10 level teaspoons of wheat and one level teaspoon of ammonium chloride in a dry, empty bottle.

Screw the cap on tight and shake the bottle about 50 times. If the ammonium chloride does not become sticky or cake, the moisture content of the wheat is not more than 14 per cent.

Should the ammonium chloride cake or stick, even slightly, the moisture content is over 14 per cent and it is not safe to combine the wheat.

The grand champion winner in the 1949 "chicken of tomorrow" contest brought a national record price of $10 a pound.

Mrs. Helen Shearer, of Wernersville, Berks County, entered the prize broiler. Last year her husband, J. Warren Shearer, took the prize, and received $5.50 a pound for his champion. The Shearers kept it in the family. Shearer did not enter the contest this year.

Mrs. Shearer's prize-winning entry was a cornish-white rock cross.

The reserve championship in the junior division went to the boys of the Kennett Chapter, Future Farmers of America, at Kennett Square. Their prize cornish-white rocks brought $9 a pound.

Cumberland and Perry county farmers have partially solved the problem of storing and drying wheat with the signing of contract between the Commodity Credit Corporation and H. P. Dyson & Sons, of New Bloomfield.

The company will accept 20,000 bushels of wheat from farmers on which the Government has made commodity loans under the price support program and will either store this wheat until the close of the loan period, April 30, 1950, or any prior period at which time farmers may want to sell their wheat and liquidate the loan, the Production and Marketing Administration reported.

Install Officers For Yardley Auxiliary

YARDLEY, July 14—Officers of American Legion Auxiliary, Knowles-Doyle Post, have been installed. They include: Miss Helen B. McCarthy, president; Mrs. Joseph McKenna, vice-president; Miss A. Marie Kelly, acting secretary; Mrs. Robert C. Belleville, 3d, treasurer; Mrs. Phoebe Dougherty, chaplain; Miss Anna Smith, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Kathryn M. Kinney, historian.

The officers were installed at a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. Belleville. Mrs. Harland Everett, of Willow Grove, eastern director of the American Legion Auxiliary, was a guest speaker.

New members at the supper were Mrs. Joseph Harvey, Mrs. Arthur

Perkins, Mrs. Robert Schmidt, Mrs. Robert Chamberlain and Mrs. Richard Fox.

Mrs. Belleville read a prayer in memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Brown whose name will be inscribed on a gavel she gave the auxiliary.

Name William Ingraham As Administrative Ass't

MORRISVILLE, July 14—Named as administrative assistant of Pennsylvania Schools, succeeding H. Edmund Smith, is William Ingraham.

Mr. Ingraham, a graduate of Lock Haven State Teachers College and Rutgers University, Ingraham was former head teacher at Fallington. He began teaching at Crawford township high school in 1946 after serving two years with the Army Air Corps.

Discussion Period Is Planned by A Grange

PLUMSTEADVILLE, July 14—Should patronage refunds of true cooperatives be subject to a corporate tax? is the subject to be discussed at a meeting of Plumsteadville Grange on Friday evening.

Hobart Myers, Dudley W. Winter, Raymond C. Gross and Leonard Lewis will participate in the discussion.

Readings will be given by Harold Steeley and Mrs. Charles Snyder, with instrumental solo by J. Earle Yerkes, Jr.

KENT COW COMPLETES TEST

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., July 14—Weonland Bunnie Ormsby Kent, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Milton C. Satterthwaite, Woodside, Pa., has completed a 315-day production test of 552 pounds of butterfat and 15,763 pounds of milk made in Herd Improvement Registry tests. Testing was supervised by Pennsylvania State College in co-operation with the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

"Bunnie" was milked twice daily and was 5 years 9 months when she began her test period.

RECIPES

Individual Swiss Steaks
1 round steak 1-inch thick
¾ cup enriched flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Lard or bacon drippings

1 onion sliced
2 cups tomatoes
Cut round steak into individual servings. Pound seasoned flour into steaks. Brown in lard or bacon drippings. Place a slice of onion on each steak and add tomatoes. Cover and cook in a slow oven (300 deg. F.) for 1½ hours or until tender. 4 to 6 servings.

Liver Fricassee

1 pound sliced liver
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup flour
¼ cup bacon drippings
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 medium peppers, chopped
6 small white onions, chopped
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
Cooked rice
Dredge liver with seasoned flour.

Brown in hot fat. Add tomatoes, peppers, onions and seasonings. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes. Serve with cooked rice. 6 servings.

Eggs in Bologna Cups

6 slices of large bologna, ½ to ¾ inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
6 eggs
Salt and pepper
Brown slices of bologna in a frying pan in hot drippings. As the meat heats it will curl, forming inverted cups. Turn cups over and put an egg in each. Season with salt and pepper. Add a tablespoon of water to the pan and cover closely. Allow eggs to steam a few minutes.

No wants too small or great that a Want Ad will not solve.

WASHINGTON WEEK

By CHARLES L. EGENROAD

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14—There seems to be little doubt among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill that Mr. Truman's followers in the House of Representatives will do everything in their power to prevent any new labor-management legislation from passing this session of Congress.

In the event the Labor Relations Act of 1949, recently passed by the Senate, gains the favor of House Members over Administration objections, there is no doubt President Truman will veto the bill when it arrives at his desk.

These being accepted probabilities, just cause is given to review the honesty of the Democrat Administration to its 1948 labor platform.

For example, the Democrat convention did not stop with advocating repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. It went further. It said:

"We advocate such legislation as is desirable to establish a just body of rules to assure free and effective collective bargaining, to determine, in the public interest, the rights of employees and employers, to reduce to a minimum their conflict of interests, and to enable unions to keep their membership free from Communistic influences."

New Labor Act Applauded

One-third of the Democrats in the Senate, in fact, a wide majority of all Senators, apparently felt, in voting for the 1949 Labor Relations Act, that they were supporting revisions in the existing act which would "assure free and effective collective bargaining, to determine, in the public interest, the rights of employees and employers."

Why should there be any opposition to fulfillment of that part of the platform? More than a score of changes were made in the act with the approval of the great majority of the people's representatives in the Senate.

Then, there is that now-famous last phrase in the Democrat labor platform which reads:

"... and to enable unions to keep their membership free from Communistic influences."

Trumanites Would Abandon Anti-Red Oath

Here again is reason to question the honesty of the Administration toward both its 1948 platform and toward labor, in particular.

When the Administration labor bill was introduced by Utah's Democrat Senator Thomas, it strangely omitted the only definite legal restriction ever placed as a bar to Communism in the ranks of organized labor—the loyalty oath.

Not only did the Senate save the Administration's promise by retaining the loyalty oath for workers while rewriting the new bill, but the Senate went a step further than the Democrat platform by imposing the same type of oath upon employers.

The Democrat Administration is not true to its platform, nor is it sincere toward organized labor in its efforts to sabotage highly constructive new labor gains in the Labor Relations Act of 1949.

EDGELEY TO PLAY LAKEHURST NINE HERE SATURDAY

Edgely A. C. which has won its last three games in the Bristol Suburban League will play its annual game with the Lakehurst Naval Air Station Saturday afternoon at two o'clock on Memorial Park diamond. Later in the season, the teams will play at Lakehurst.

Last season the two teams played twice with close games resulting each time. Manager Art Kramers will most likely use "Al" Doster on the mound with Stan Felkner behind the plate.

BRISTOL ALL-STARS WIN

The Bristol All-Stars won over the Pennsylvania State Hospital team, 4-1, on the latter's field as George Ireland pitched a 2-hit game. It was the second time that the All-Stars won over the State outfit. "Jim" Ransom's triple with two on in the sixth won the game for the Bristol team. "Reds" Condit starred in the field.

ROHM & HAAS WINS OVER LEEDOM TEAM

The Bristol Industrial League resumed activity last evening as the Rohm & Haas team blanked Leedom's, 6-0, on the former's field.

"Jack" Spencer pitched the set of goose-eggs for the chemical mixers, giving up but four hits. He walked but one batter.

Steinbrun led the winners with the club, getting three out of four.

CHIANG FIGHTS ON

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is now held in low esteem at Washington. So the statement he has just issued, after a long silence, is not likely to carry much weight there.

Nevertheless, Chiang made some points that should receive consideration. He says a Communist victory in China will mean that Communism will spread all over Asia. That may well be. He also says a Communist Asia will make another world war inevitable. That could be, too. Certainly these are potentialities that cannot be ignored.

Chiang is basing his own course on this very thesis. He intends to keep on resisting—partly because he believes the Nationalist cause is not hopeless, but chiefly because he is convinced of an eventual clash between Russia and the United States. He hopes to hold out long enough to be rescued.

Once before, Chiang followed a similar strategy of waiting and eventually American power freed China from the Japanese conqueror. Whatever his faults, he has determination and endless patience. And he may be right in believing that the present situation is not beyond repair.

At the moment, all Chiang asks is that the United States "re-activate its policy of giving moral support to the Chinese government in its fight against Communism." He does not say that this will be enough, and obviously it would not be enough. Yet it is not much to ask in the light of the past and surely the United States is under no obligation to give aid or comfort to the Chinese Communists.

WHERE, NOT HOW MUCH

The Supreme Court of the State of New York has been asked to fix the penalty for erecting a building where it shouldn't be at the rate of $50,000 an inch.

It all comes about because a national drug-cigar store firm has suddenly discovered that its two-year-old building in New York City encroaches on the street line in some places by three-quarters of an inch to an inch. Naturally, this puts the drug firm in dudgeon with the city, although the latter has had nothing to say as yet.

Building owners say it is the fault of the contractors, who were supposed to have engaged the services of a surveyor. If the surveyor had been on the job and peeped through his transit correctly, this would never have happened. So, they are filing suit against the contractors to the tune of $50,000 an inch.

What the court will decide will be interesting to note, but it can be pointed out that the price per inch mentioned by the plaintiff is not as big as it may appear. The property is located about midtown, where real estate carried the going market price of precious stones.

A comparable error, if an error was committed, hereabouts would probably be settled amicably. In this supercharged and complex economy, the error isn't so important as where it is committed.

A Sham Exposed

Since there really is no good answer, the Marshall Plan experts were in somewhat of a hole. Congress kept pressing the question. Eventually there was prepared and turned over to Congress a breakdown which accounted for all of the proposed spending.

In round figures, two and a half billions were to go to the general foreign-aid purposes which everyone hears about, and a billion and a half was to be used for the lesser-publicized "dumping" program. This is the process by which the Marshall Plan is used to keep food prices high in this country. Uncle Sam buys up enough of certain foods to create an artificial shortage. Formerly he destroyed this "surplus." The future over burning millions of pounds of potatoes, when housewives were paying famine prices for spuds at the grocery store, forced the Government to find something else to do with these foods. What is being done under the Marshall Plan is to "dump" them on some foreign country, whether it needs them or not—and call it "relief."

You might make a mental note that according to the official figures, more than three eighths, or about 30 per cent, of the "foreign aid" in the Marshall Plan is really going for the purpose of keeping your grocery bill high.

Now, what the Senate Committee did was to accept this Marshall Plan report on the basis of its meaning just what it said it meant, and to tie the "dumping" money down for that use, no other.

This was done with the following amendment, sponsored by Senator John L. McClellan, of Arkansas—a Democrat, by the way:

"The amount required to finance the procurement of surplus agricultural products (determined surplus by the Secretary of Agriculture) of the kinds and in the quantities set out in the ECA budget justification submitted to the Senate shall be available only for such financing."

The Senate theory is, of course, that since the Marshall Plan experts had listed some two and a half billions of dollars as being enough for their non-dumping activities, and since they had asked for a billion and a half for this dumping, the thing to do was to give them just what they asked for—but hold them to it.

Maybe you'd expect to find the Marshall Planners flattered to have the United States Senate accept their "estimates" in good faith and take them seriously.

If so, you don't know the bureaucratic mind. The moment the news got out that the Senate had "frozen" the food-price-support end of the appropriation to that purpose only, the heavens rocked with wails of anguish.

The burden of the Marshall Plan officials' protest was, in effect, "but suppose we want to use the money for something else?"

That's just the point. If they want money for something else, why don't they ask for it openly—instead of trying to fool Congress in the matter?

The New York Times put the matter clearly, though with an attempt at tact, when it said:

"It was never the intention of the ECA to adhere rigidly to these estimates even as to total expenditures on a given commodity let alone on an individual country basis."

From their screams of rage at being taken seriously by the Senate, one would infer that the Marshall Plan bureaucrats never intended to adhere to any of the "estimates" they gave to Congress.

Their first arguments against the restriction were almost childish. "Suppose some country decides it doesn't want the goods we plan to dump there," they said in effect. "What are we going to do? Dump it anyway? Maybe a lot of this part of the appropriation is simply going to be wasted!"

The answer to that is so simple that no one except a bureaucrat would ever be likely to overlook it: If the spending isn't needed—just don't spend the money, and let it go back to the U. S. Treasury!

What the Marshall Plan boys seem to have had in mind was to get Congress to give them the appropriation for the price-supports, and then actually use it for other purposes, entirely different, which Congress would be unwilling to approve.

The implication is that a good deal of the billion and a half would actually be spent buying heavy machinery and production line equipment to help low-paid or slave foreign labor compete against American working-people.

There are two further implications: One is that the new "embargo" announced by Sir Stafford Cripps of England against a long list of American products is going to throw the whole Marshall Plan out of gear. The other is that the request for the price-support funds was just a bluff on the part of the Marshall Planners—who expect to see this whole field taken over by some other branch of the Federal government under some version of the Brannan farm-subsidy scheme.

But obviously, the Marshall Plan boys told Congress they wanted the money for one purpose, when they actually had something else in mind.

And are they burned up at being caught in their own trap?

tion weapon was used was against members of the Communist-sponsored Czech "Catholic Action," which the Holy See charges is a subversive organization attempting to split the church.

Although Vatican spokesmen stressed that the decree was "immediately in effect," a dignitary was quoted as saying that Catholics who professed Communism because of coercion were not affected.

Similarly, some sources said that Catholics who, in view of the stern order, renounce their Communist ties, will be allowed to re-enter the fold.

Recent estimates place the number of Catholics in the world at 330 million, but there is no possible way of knowing how many are Communists or party followers.

The excommunication was believed aimed mainly at European nations behind the Iron Curtain, where Communism is seeking to make heavy inroads into the ranks of the faithful. The order is also expected to have strong repercussions in France and Italy, both of which are predominantly Catholic and have tremendous Communist enrollments.

Fined for Violation Of Building Code

contending that Mr. Pierra was establishing a business, dealing in women's wearing apparel. A group of these residents appeared at one of the public meetings held to discuss Bristol's proposed zoning law. They asked that action be taken by the zoning commission, but were informed that the law had not as yet been enacted. Since then there has been considerable contention and finally action was brought last evening on the grounds that Pierra had obtained a permit for the porch enclosure, but had not obtained a permit to demolish the wall between the enclosure and the house. It was on this basis that he was fined. It was intimated, however, after the hearing, that the borough would give him a permit for demolishing the wall.

Residents of the block objected to business being set up in the block and this led to considerable feeling between them and Pierra.

Exchangeites Spend An Evening at Scout Camp

Bristol Exchange Club, together with Newtown and New Hope Exchange Clubs, visited Bucks County Boy Scouts' Camp Ockanickon at Point Pleasant, last evening.

Raymond Hoxworth, Scout executive, and Fred Kemmerer, president of Bucks Co. Council of Boy Scouts, greeted the Exchangeites and were hosts for the evening.

A chicken dinner was served in Palmer Lodge dining hall at seven o'clock by the Boy Scout committee, after which Carl Foell conducted a tour of inspection of the different camp sites which consist of accommodations for approximately 102 boys who are enjoying facilities and activities at the camp this week.

The main event was a water carnival in the camp's excellent swimming pool, starting at 8.30 and lasting until 10.30, during which time a large percentage of boys participated. All events were enthusiastically received.

Fine Exhibition Given By Local Aeromodelers

Last evening, Aeromodelers meeting was held outdoors and took the form of a flying session. Although a large part of the evening was spent in search of a flying site, one was finally found and the club members put on several fine exhibitions.

William Rasmussen flew two successful control line stunt models of original design; Thomas Pearson demonstrated his endurance glider, the same one which won first place in the Johnsville July 4th contest; David Mathias, William Smyrl, Thomas Spitzo and Gordon Pearson flew conventional type stunt models; Warren McQuaid test flew a new Class A speed model that showed great speed. It was an improvement on the same model which won for him first prize in the junior speed event at the Johnsville contest. John Serra flew a beautiful scale model of a "Yacht Corsair."

Next week's meeting will also be an outdoor one. Members are to gather at the meeting room at seven p. m. for transportation to a flying site.

The next model contest to be attended by Aeromodelers members will be at Allentown on July 31st. All types of events are scheduled and merchandise as well as trophies will be given the winners.

CHIANG FIGHTS ON

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is now held in low esteem at Washington. So the statement he has just issued, after a long silence, is not likely to carry much weight there.

Nevertheless, Chiang made some points that should receive consideration. He says a Communist victory in China will mean that Communism will spread all over Asia. That may well be. He also says a Communist Asia will make another world war inevitable. That could be, too. Certainly these are potentialities that cannot be ignored.

Chiang is basing his own course on this very thesis. He intends to keep on resisting—partly because he believes the Nationalist cause is not hopeless, but chiefly because he is convinced of an eventual clash between Russia and the United States. He hopes to hold out long enough to be rescued.

Once before, Chiang followed a similar strategy of waiting and eventually American power freed China from the Japanese conqueror. Whatever his faults, he has determination and endless patience. And he may be right in believing that the present situation is not beyond repair.

At the moment, all Chiang asks is that the United States "re-activate its policy of giving moral support to the Chinese government in its fight against Communism." He does not say that this will be enough, and obviously it would not be enough. Yet it is not much to ask in the light of the past and surely the United States is under no obligation to give aid or comfort to the Chinese Communists.

WHERE, NOT HOW MUCH

The Supreme Court of the State of New York has been asked to fix the penalty for erecting a building where it shouldn't be at the rate of $50,000 an inch.

It all comes about because a national drug-cigar store firm has suddenly discovered that its two-year-old building in New York City encroaches on the street line in some places by three-quarters of an inch to an inch. Naturally, this puts the drug firm in dutch with the city, although the latter has had nothing to say as yet.

Building owners say it is the fault of the contractors, who were supposed to have engaged the services of a surveyor. If the surveyor had been on the job and peeped through his transit correctly, this would never have happened. So, they are filing suit against the contractors to the tune of $50,000 an inch.

What the court will decide will be interesting to note, but it can be pointed out that the price per inch mentioned by the plaintiff is not as big as it may appear. The property is located about midtown, where real estate carried the going market price of precious stones.

A comparable error, if an error was committed, hereabouts would probably be settled amicably. In this supercharged and complex economy, the error isn't so important as where it is committed.

A Sham Exposed

Since there really is no good answer, the Marshall Plan experts were in somewhat of a hole. Congress kept pressing the question. Eventually there was prepared and turned over to Congress a breakdown which accounted for all of the proposed spending.

In round figures, two and a half billions were to go to the general foreign-aid purposes which everyone hears about, and a billion and a half was to be used for the lesser-publicized "dumping" program. This is the process by which the Marshall Plan is used to keep food prices high in this country. Uncle Sam buys up enough of certain foods to create an artificial shortage. Formerly he destroyed this "surplus." The furore over burning millions of pounds of potatoes, when housewives were paying famine prices for spuds at the grocery store, forced the Government to find something else to do with these foods. What is being done under the Marshall Plan is to "dump" them on some foreign country, whether it needs them or not—and call it "relief."

You might make a mental note that according to the official figures, more than three eighths, or about 30 per cent, of the "foreign aid" in the Marshall Plan is really going for the purpose of keeping your grocery bill high.

Now, what the Senate Committee did was to accept this Marshall Plan report on the basis of its meaning just what it said it meant, and to tie the "dumping" money down for that use, no other.

This was done with the following amendment, sponsored by Senator John L. McClellan, of Arkansas—a Democrat, by the way:

"The amount required to finance the procurement of surplus agricultural products (determined surplus by the Secretary of Agriculture) of the kinds and in the quantities set out in the ECA budget justification submitted to the Senate shall be available only for such financing."

The Senate theory is, of course, that since the Marshall Plan experts had listed some two and a half billions of dollars as being enough for their non-dumping activities, and since they had asked for a billion and a half for this dumping, the thing to do was to give them just what they asked for—but hold them to it.

Maybe you'd expect to find the Marshall Planers flattered to have the United States Senate accept their "estimates" in good faith and take them seriously.

If so, you don't know the bureaucratic mind. The moment the news got out that the Senate had "frozen" the food-price-support end of the appropriation to that purpose only, the heavens rocked with wails of anguish.

The burden of the Marshall Plan officials' protest was, in effect, "but suppose we want to use the money for something else?"

That's just the point. If they want money for something else, why don't they ask for it openly—instead of trying to fool Congress in the matter?

The New York Times put the matter clearly, though with an attempt at tact, when it said:

"It was never the intention of the ECA to adhere rigidly to these estimates even as to total expenditures on a given commodity let alone on an individual country basis."

From their screams of rage at being taken seriously by the Senate, one would infer that the Marshall Plan bureaucrats never intended to adhere to any of the "estimates" they gave to Congress.

Their first arguments against the restriction were almost childish. "Suppose some country decides it doesn't want the goods we plan to dump there," they said in effect. "What are we going to do? Dump it anyway? Maybe a lot of this part of the appropriation is simply going to be wasted!"

The answer to that is so simple that no one except a bureaucrat would ever be likely to overlook it: If the spending isn't needed—just don't spend the money, and let it go back to the U. S. Treasury!

What the Marshall Plan boys seem to have had in mind was to get Congress to give them the appropriation for the price-supports, and then actually use it for other purposes, entirely different, which Congress would be unwilling to approve.

The implication is that a good deal of the billion and a half would actually be spent buying heavy machinery and production line equipment to help low-paid or slave foreign labor compete against American working-people.

There are two further implications: One is that the new "embargo" announced by Sir Stafford Cripps of England against a long list of American products is going to throw the whole Marshall Plan out of gear. The other is that the request for the price-support funds was just a bluff on the part of the Marshall Planers—who expect to see this whole field taken over by some other branch of the Federal government under some version of the Brannan farm-subsidy scheme.

But obviously, the Marshall Plan boys told Congress they wanted the money for one purpose, when they actually had something else in mind.

And are they burned up at being caught in their own trap?

clause of the new rent law authorizing states to legislate controls themselves.

Senator Wherry, Republican floor leader proposed adding to the North Atlantic treaty a "declaration" that the United States was not bound in any way to furnish arms in the absence of an actual attack.

Soviet officials eased the curbs on truck traffic on the Helmsdorf-Berlin Autobahn. East-West trade talks were temporarily suspended in disagreement over currency.

Half of the port of London was tied up by the dockers' strike. The Commons, 412 to 4, approved the Government's state of emergency decree.

All Roman Catholics freely accepting any part of the Communist doctrine or remaining within the party will suffer major excommunication, the Vatican announced.

The United States accused Russia of fostering "fear, social unrest, confusion and disorder" in Japan in an effort to break the Government.

ever, in 1948 we were very prosperous and there was virtually no unemployment. We are still in a period of readjustment today; people have stopped buying, they have the money, however. Much money will be spent for expansion and modernization of plants in the next four years by corporations. A great deal of the present anxiety is due to the sharp readjustment of industries. Most of us put too much stock in wild reports of commentators. We have problems like the threat of communism and labor problems, but we can and will solve these problems under the American way of life," asserted Mr. Dickerson.

In summarizing his talk, Mr. Dickerson said "We hold stock in this stock corporation in a deed of trust from our forefathers. We must preserve our American way of life; we must give thanks to Almighty God for our possessions. Where do we go from here? We can look forward to an era of prosperity if we have faith and courage—not fear."

means for developing greater cooperation of all groups, looking to closer relations and better understanding between public officials, industry, commerce, and civic leaders within the area.

"God planning, both physical and economic, is not static. Its methods change and improve constantly. Therefore, progress is made when there is discussion of these developments and an exchange of information between those specializing in the planning field and those in industry and commerce, essential part of community development whose interest and support is an asset."

"Such is the purpose of calling the Greater Philadelphia—South Jersey Conference as a key to economic opportunities to public and private business."

The program highlights: Delaware river ports, new highway networks, South Jersey—Philadelphia rapid transit, proposed new river crossings, water supply, sewage disposal, stream pollution, industrial development, population trends, and area markets.

HULMEVILLE

There were 11 members present for the July business meeting of Ladies' Auxiliary, held in William Penn Fire Co. station, Monday evening. Plans for a bus trip to Seaside Heights, N. J., July 30th, were completed, members and friends who plan to make the journey being asked to make reservations by telephoning president, Mrs. William Caylor, Hulmeville 6645. The bus will leave Hulmeville at 11 a. m., and remain at the resort for eight hours. Refreshments were served by Mrs. James Tracy and Mrs. Charles Thorpe, Sr.

tion weapon was used was against members of the Communist-sponsored Czech "Catholic Action," which the Holy See charges is a subversive organization attempting to split the church.

Although Vatican spokesmen stressed that the decree was "immediately in effect," a dignity was quoted as saying that Catholics who professed Communism because of coercion were not affected.

Similarly, some sources said that Catholics who, in view of the stern order, renounce their Communist ties, will be allowed to re-enter the fold.

Recent estimates place the number of Catholics in the world at 330 million, but there is no possible way of knowing how many are Communists or party followers.

The excommunication was believed aimed mainly at European nations behind the Iron Curtain, where Communism is seeking to make heavy inroads into the ranks of the faithful. The order is also expected to have strong repercussions in France and Italy, both of which are predominantly Catholic and have tremendous Communist enrollments.

Fined for Violation Of Building Code

contending that Mr. Piero was establishing a business, dealing in women's wearing apparel. A group of these residents appeared at one of the public meetings held to discuss Bristol's proposed zoning law. They asked that action be taken by the zoning commission, but were informed that the law had not as yet been enacted. Since then there has been considerable contention and finally action was brought last evening on the grounds that Piero had obtained a permit for the porch enclosure, but had not obtained a permit to demolish the wall between the enclosure and the house. It was on this basis that he was fined. It was intimated, however, after the hearing, that the borough would give him a permit for demolishing the wall.

Residents of the block objected to business being set up in the block and this led to considerable feeling between them and Piero.

Exchangeites Spend An Evening at Scout Camp

Bristol Exchange Club, together with Newtown and New Hope Exchange Clubs, visited Bucks County Boy Scouts' Camp Ockanickon at Point Pleasant, last evening.

Raymond Hoxworth, Scout executive, and Fred Kemmerer, president of Bucks Co. Council of Boy Scouts, greeted the Exchangeites and were hosts for the evening.

A chicken dinner was served in Palmer Lodge dining hall at seven o'clock by the Boy Scout committee, after which Carl Foell conducted a tour of inspection of the different camp sites which consist of accommodations for approximately 102 boys who are enjoying facilities and activities at the camp this week.

The main event was a water carnival in the camp's excellent swimming pool, starting at 8.30 and lasting until 10.30, during which time a large percentage of boys participated. All events were enthusiastically received.

Fine Exhibition Given By Local Aeromodelers

Last evening, Aeromodelers meeting was held outdoors and took the form of a flying session. Although a large part of the evening was spent in search of a flying site, one was finally found and the club members put on several fine exhibitions.

William Rasmussen flew two successful control line stunt models of original design; Thomas Pearson demonstrated his endurance glider, the same one which won first place in the Johnsville July 4th contest; David Mathias, William Smyrl, Thomas Spitzo and Gordon Pearson flew conventional type stunt models; Warren McQuaid test flew a new Class A speed model that showed great speed. It was an improvement on the same model which won for him first prize in the junior speed event at the Johnsville contest. John Serra flew a beautiful scale model of a "Vought Corsair."

Next week's meeting will also be an outdoor one. Members are to gather at the meeting room at seven p. m. for transportation to a flying site.

The next model contest to be attended by Aeromodelers members will be at Allentown on July 31st. All types of events are scheduled and merchandise as well as trophies will be given the winners.

Radio Star Lives On Bucks County Farm

a five and dime store clerk in "Hogan's Daughter," quit high school in Hartford, Conn., to join a stock company that had come to town. She played stock in Hartford for several weeks, then persuaded her parents to let her live with relatives in New York. While in that city she obtained another stock company job.

After several years in stock companies, Shirley made her Broadway debut with Humphrey Bogart in "Hell's Bells." She has been in many hit comedies since. Among them were "Philadelphia Story," "Three Men on a Horse," "My Sister Eileen," and most recently "Goodbye, My Fancy."

While in her Bucks County farmhouse, Mrs. Baker likes to putter around the house. She says she would have been an interior decorator if she hadn't become an actress.

The actress has brown eyes, fair skin and red-gold hair which she always has worn short and curly despite changing hair styles. Small, slim and energetic, she spends her leisure time driving around Bucks County looking for antiques for the house. The home is furnished in early American except for an 18th Century drawing room.

Church is Purchased For Class-Room Use

PLEASANT VALLEY, July 14.—Two new classrooms will be ready for use in September at Springfield-Durham High School, here. The former Mt. Carmel church adjoining the present high school has been purchased by the school district, and is being converted into two modern classrooms.

The addition will make possible a commercial department and a music room for the largest student enrollment in the history of the school. Shower facilities are also Eternal God our Father, deliver us from the corroding deception of sin and the bewildering peril of selfishness. Give us a truer sense of value that we may count the worth of men above the noble will to give, overlooking that our gifts from Thee are greater than our merit. Budge us with the kingdom's blessing of Christ's love and Thy spirit forever. Amen.

Hollywood Beauty Parade

By Max Factor, Jr.

HOLLYWOOD. — (INS) — If you drastically alter the color of your hair, you will soon find if you haven't known it from the beginning, that this will also necessitate a change in the make-up colors used. If you are a natural brunette, for instance, and suddenly become a blonde you can't attractively go on using the same make-up shades with your new blondness that you correctly did when your hair was darker.

This same principle of make-up color change holds true for hair shades which have been naturally altered by becoming gray or white. Women who have pure white hair or are gray blondes or gray red-heads, and have fair or creamy skins, can advantageously conduct their cosmetic grooming with face in the lightest amber shade. For these hair types, if the complexion is medium, sallow or a light olive, a powder in the amber-rose range is advisable. If the skin is a deep olive, one of the darker amber shades is glamorously effective. Rouge and lipstick in the light clear-red, light blue-red, or light rose-red range will appear to advantage on any of the hair-color and complexion combinations mentioned.

Gray brunettes and gray brunettes can logically follow the same identical face powder tint prescriptions given above, according to the natural complexion tones evident.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

OCCASIONALLY, while discussing the care and feeding of their families, housewives are heard to remark that, while some recipes sound delicious, they "have too many ingredients." Actually, a check of the average meal's ingredients would soon show that most of them are herbs, spices and condiments which any cook keeps close at hand for ready use.

These condiments, given a prominent place in all meals recommended by the A & P Service for Homemakers, often make the difference between an ordinary meal and an exciting, flavorful and memorable one.

For example, although salt, pepper, vinegar and onions are used frequently for seasoning, the use of wine or herb vinegars in the preparation of salads and fish sauces provides a subtle, yet definite difference. Dill, a favorite of Scandinavian cooks in preparing fish, may well be used more often by others. A pot of fresh dill on the window sill, or the dried seed as it comes from the grocer's may be used. Beer is another seasoning used for fish as well as meat and cheese dishes.

Ginger is often used by Hungarian cooks to rub over the meat for roasting in addition to salt and pepper. A tiny pinch is all that is needed. It may also be used to flavor gravy, or, as a substitute, ginger snaps may be used for both flavor and thickening.

A pinch of nutmeg adds to the flavor of many vegetables, but only enough to point up the vegetable's natural flavor should be used, not so much that its taste becomes noticeable. Spinach is exceptionally tasty when served this way.

Although the list of condiments is long and fascinating, none of them are difficult to obtain. The Ann Page line of spices and seasonings provides a ready and reasonable source of supply for the average housewife. Often, blending several of these condiments, according to the ingredients of the meal, will prove surprisingly effective.

But the gray brunette should use rouge and lipstick in the medium clear-red, blue-red, or rose-red range, and the gray brunette the darkest color tone of clear-red, blue-red, or rose-red.

If hair grayness is not very much in evidence, and the main color effect offered by the hair framing your face is that of the original color rather than the gray, continue using the make-up shades which were in correct color harmony for your hair and complexion before the gray started to appear.

If your hair isn't graying, but you are confused about the precise classification of its color and consequently aren't sure about what make-up shades to select classify your tresses as the lighter type of the two in mind. Thus if you don't know whether you are a light brunette or a dark blonde, assume that the latter is the case when it comes to choosing make-up tints.

In cases of borderline skin coloring, prescribe your make-up for the darker of the two complexion tones which you judge might apply to this classification.

Fortune smiles on those who make a habit of reading Courier Want Ads.

Smart, Comfortable Shoes

These pretty sandals, with flexible leather soles and uppers made of multi-colored kid, are a good choice for summer evenings, late-day dates.

By HELEN FOLLETT

HAVE you been looking over the new offerings in footwear? They are exciting. Nothing like having the little trotters smartly cased unless it is having them comfortably housed, which is really more important.

Teacher would call your attention to pumps. They are tops at the moment. They make for foot health—of all things, as if a woman ever thinks of that!—and they also make for elegance. Flexible leather soles, more room at the ball of the foot, new lasts to insure snugness and support without strangulation, all these elements make the pump an all-around pleasure.

Practicability is not the only quality. Pumps can be beautifully decorative. You can have buckles on them. Remember Bobby Shafto who went to sea, had silver buckles on his knees? Pretty Bob-betties will have them on their shoes, and right proud they will be, you bet you!

Or, maybe she will have touches of beading or buttons or dainty bows, or other creations of master designers. Oh, yes; extra! extra! Pumps are available in any heel height required. But don't fail to see that they carry flexible leather soles that will yield to the movements of your pedals.

Warm weather means that you should think of foot care as well as foot looks. If yours feel as if they were running a temperature, bathe them with tepid water, spray with cold, dry with brisk friction, massage with mineral oil. This practice will impart coolness and ease. Also, the free use of oil is a good way to keep calloused spots from forming. If you wear the right shoes, however, you will not be cursed with these ills, or corns either.

If the feet perspire rub them with a foot powder, sprinkle some inside your shoes. After washing your stockings rinse in several waters as soap deposits may set up a skin irritation.

State Refuses Light At Sellersville Corner

SELLERSVILLE, July 14 — The State Highways Department has refused to install a traffic light at the Main street and Temple avenue intersection here it was announced at the July meeting of Sellersville Borough Council. The state rejected the plea for installation on the grounds that traffic is not enough at the crossing to warrant a light.

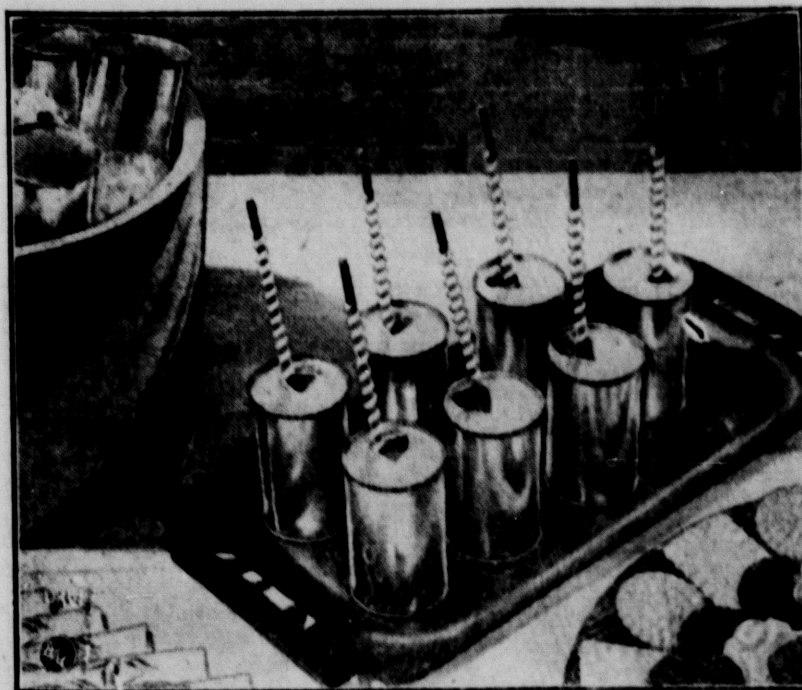

Council had desired one because of the numerous accidents and traffic violations that occurred there. A checkup has revealed that an average of 952 motor vehicles pass through the intersection every hour, and less than 100 vehicles enter the intersection from Temple avenue during the same time.

William Walter, superintendent of the water department, informed council that water in the reservoir is twenty-four inches below the overflow and said the water situation was not acute.

Thirty-five arrests were made for highway violations in the borough the past month, Chief of Police M. P. Vetter reported. Fines collected amounted to $94 for the borough and $20 for the state. The police committee stated that the recently purchased police car is now in service.

Building Inspector Frank Hallman issued two permits, one to Earl Fargo to make alterations to his home and another to Roy Lawrence for the construction of a garage.

"Pick-Me-Up" Cans of Citrus Juice Beat Summertime Thirsts

EASIEST way in the world to satisfy that feeling of thirst which attacks young and old alike all summer long is to keep a good supply of individual-drink size cans of cooling citrus juices on ice. Available now in a variety of flavors . . . orange, grapefruit, and blended grapefruit and orange . . . the little 6-ounce cans will prove economical, handy and popular for all members of the family.

Better than pink circus punch in view of the high Vitamin C content, you'll find that small fry go for these little cans of sunny fruit juice. Chilled, the individual portion of citrus juice is an ideal beverage for children's birthday parties.

RICE IS WRONG

Years of research pioneering guarantee LUCKIES ARE A FINER CIGARETTE!

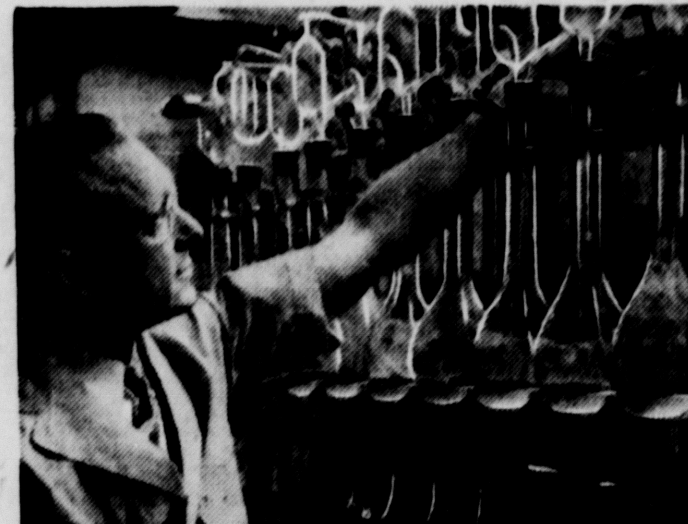

Constant research at Lucky Strike's famous cigarette laboratory—America's largest and most completely equipped—is devoted to giving you a finer cigarette!

THERE is no finer cigarette in the world today than Lucky Strike. Here's why: Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. And every step in the making of Luckies—from before this fine tobacco is bought until the finished cigarette reaches you—comes under the watchful eye of the largest and most completely equipped cigarette research laboratory in America.

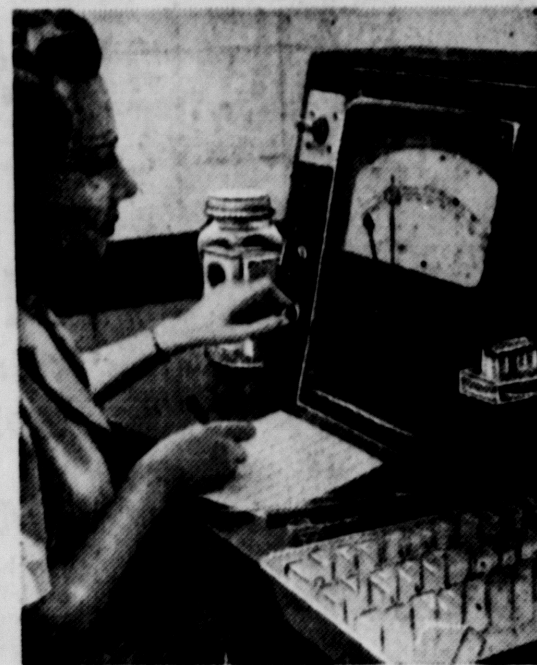

For many years, the famous Lucky Strike laboratory in Richmond, Virginia, has been a center of cigarette science and technology. In this remarkable building you can see a fascinating collection of scientific instruments—microscopes, spectrophotometers, balances, projectors, humidification chambers, and many other complicated and costly machines.

Working with this array of scientific equipment are more than 60 highly trained specialists—chemists, biologists, engineers, physicists. They work on tobacco, on finished cigarettes, on paper, foil, cellophane and even printing inks. For Lucky Strike scientists have for years delved into cigarette research on an extensive scale.

Today, because of the miracle of modern science, Lucky Strike is a finer cigarette.

Testing tobacco. Samples from every tobacco-growing area are analyzed before and after purchase. These extensive scientific analyses, along with the expert judgment of Lucky Strike buyers, assure you that the tobacco in Luckies is fine, light and mild. No wonder Luckies are a finer cigarette.

Luckies stay fresh. After Lucky Strike cigarettes have been packaged, they must be tightly sealed to remain fresh. Here you see the cellophane seal being tested for air-tightness. Such instruments are in constant use at every plant.

We know:

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By John Harms
(INS Penna. Farm Editor)

HARRISBURG, July 14—The Agriculture Department has alerted farmers to the financial loss of high moisture content wheat.

Millers and other wheat buyers are becoming more wary about accepting wheat with high moisture content, the department said. The safety point is 14 per cent moisture.

High moisture wheat heats in a short time when it is stored in bulk and extra handling, plus artificial drying necessary are costly and rob the farmer of a higher financial clearance.

One comparatively simple way to determine the moisture content of wheat, familiar to county agents, can be used to determine the right time to combine.

The test requires only ammonium chloride, obtainable in drug stores, a teaspoon and a bottle. One ounce of ammonium chloride is sufficient for about six tests.

Take from the wheat field to be combined 20 heads of wheat, rub out the grain from each head with dry hands and mix the wheat thoroughly. Put 10 level teaspoons of wheat and one level teaspoon of ammonium chloride in a dry, empty bottle.

Screw the cap on tight and shake the bottle about 50 times. If the ammonium chloride does not become sticky or cake, the moisture content of the wheat is not more than 14 per cent.

Should the ammonium chloride cake or stick, even slightly, the moisture content is over 14 per cent and it is not safe to combine the wheat.

The grand champion winner in the 1949 "chicken of tomorrow" contest brought a national record price of $10 a pound.

Mrs. Helen Shearer, of Wernersville, Berks County, entered the prize broiler. Last year her husband, J. Warren Shearer, took the prize, and received $5.50 a pound for his champion. The Shearers kept it in the family. Shearer did not enter the contest this year.

Mrs. Shearer's prize-winning entry was a cornish-white rock cross.

The reserve championship in the junior division went to the boys of the Kennett Chapter, Future Farmers of America, at Kennett Square. Their prize cornish-white rocks brought $9 a pound.

Cumberland and Perry county farmers have partially solved the problem of storing and drying wheat with the signing of contract between the Commodity Credit Corporation and H. P. Dyson & Sons, of New Bloomfield.

The company will accept 20,000 bushels of wheat from farmers on which the Government has made commodity loans under the price support program and will either store this wheat until the close of the loan period, April 30, 1950, or any prior period at which time farmers may want to sell their wheat and liquidate the loan, the Production and Marketing Administration reported.

Install Officers For Yardley Auxiliary

YARDLEY, July 14—Officers of American Legion Auxiliary, Knowles-Doyle Post, have been installed. They include: Miss Helen B. McCarthy, president; Mrs. Joseph McKenna, vice-president; Miss A. Marie Kelly, acting secretary; Mrs. Robert C. Belleville, 3d, treasurer; Mrs. Phoebe Dougherty, chaplain; Miss Anna Smith, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Kathryn M. Kinney, historian.

The officers were installed at a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. Belleville. Mrs. Harland Everett, of Willow Grove, eastern director of the American Legion Auxiliary, was a guest speaker.

New members at the supper were Mrs. Joseph Harvey, Mrs. Arthur

Perkins, Mrs. Robert Schmidt, Mrs. Robert Chamberlain and Mrs. Richard Fox.

Mrs. Belleville read a prayer in memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Brown whose name will be inscribed on a gavel she gave the auxiliary.

KENT COW COMPLETES TEST

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., July 14 — Weonland Bunnie Ormsby Kent, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Milton C. Satterthwaite, Woodside, Pa., has completed a 315-day production test of 552 pounds of butterfat and 15,763 pounds of milk made in Herd Improvement Registry tests. Testing was supervised by Pennsylvania State College in co-operation with the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

"Bunnie" was milked twice daily and was 5 years 9 months when she began her test period.

RECIPES

Individual Swiss Steaks

1 round steak 1-inch thick
1/4 cup enriched flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Lard or bacon drippings

1 onion sliced
2 cups tomatoes
Cut round steak into individual servings. Pound seasoned flour into steaks. Brown in lard or bacon drippings. Place a slice of onion on each steak and add tomatoes. Cover and cook in a slow oven (200 deg. F.) for 1 1/2 hours or until tender. 4 to 6 servings.

Liver Ericassee

1 pound sliced liver
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup bacon drippings
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 medium peppers, chopped
6 small white onions, chopped
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Cooked rice
Dredge liver with seasoned flour.

Eggs in Bologna Cups

6 slices of large bologna, 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
6 eggs
Salt and pepper

Brown slices of bologna in a frying pan in hot drippings. As the meat heats it will curl, forming inverted cups. Turn cups over and put an egg in each. Season with salt and pepper. Add a tablespoon of water to the pan and cover closely. Allow eggs to steam a few minutes.

WASHINGTON WEEK

By CHARLES L. EGENROAD

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14—There seems to be little doubt among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill that Mr. Truman's followers in the House of Representatives will do everything in their power to prevent any new labor-management legislation from passing this session of Congress.

In the event the Labor Relations Act of 1949, recently passed by the Senate, gains the favor of House Members over Administration objections, there is no doubt President Truman will veto the bill when it arrives at his desk.

These being accepted probabilities, just cause is given to review the honesty of the Democrat Administration to its 1948 labor platform.

For example, the Democrat convention did not stop with advocating repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. It went further. It said:

"We advocate such legislation as is desirable to establish a just body of rules to assure free and effective collective bargaining, to determine, in the public interest, the rights of employees and employers, to reduce to a minimum their conflict of interests, and to enable unions to keep their membership free from Communistic influences."

New Labor Act Applauded

One-third of the Democrats in the Senate, in fact, a wide majority of all Senators, apparently felt, in voting for the 1949 Labor Relations Act, that they were supporting revisions in the existing act which would "assure free and effective collective bargaining, to determine, in the public interest, the rights of employees and employers."

Why should there be any opposition to fulfillment of that part of the platform? More than a score of changes were made in the act with the approval of the great majority of the people's representatives in the Senate.

Then, there is that now-famous last phrase in the Democrat labor platform which reads:

"... and to enable unions to keep their membership free from Communistic influences."

Trumanites Would Abandon Anti-Red Oath

Here again is reason to question the honesty of the Administration toward both its 1948 platform and toward labor, in particular.

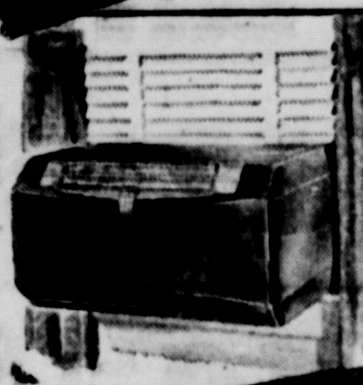

When the Administration labor bill was introduced by Utah's Democrat Senator Thomas, it strangely omitted the only definite legal restriction ever placed as a bar to Communism in the ranks of organized labor—the loyalty oath.

Not only did the Senate save the Administration's promise by retaining the loyalty oath for workers while rewriting the new bill, but the Senate went a step further than the Democrat platform by imposing the same type of oath upon employers.

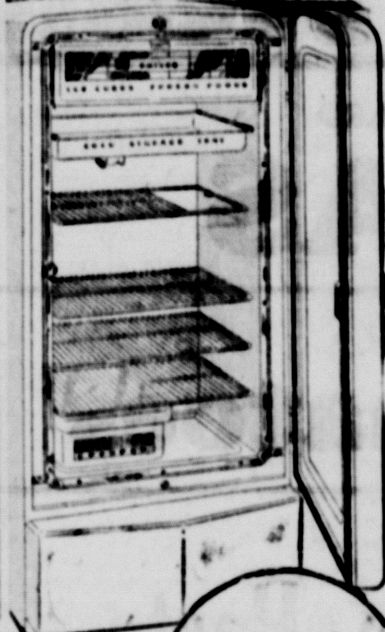

The Democrat Administration is not true to its platform, nor is it sincere toward organized labor in its efforts to sabotage highly constructive new labor gains in the Labor Relations Act of 1949.

EDGELEY TO PLAY LAKEHURST NINE HERE SATURDAY

Edgeley A. C. which has won its last three games in the Bristol Suburban League will play its annual game with the Lakehurst Naval Air Station Saturday afternoon at two o'clock on Memorial Park diamond. Later in the season, the teams will play at Lakehurst.

Last season the two teams played twice with close games resulting each time. Manager Art Kramers will most likely use "Al" Doster on the mound with Stan Felkner behind the plate.

BRISTOL ALL-STARS WIN

The Bristol All-Stars won over the Pennsylvania State Hospital team, 4-1, on the latter's field as George Ireland pitched a 2-hit game. It was the second time that the All-Stars won over the State outfit. "Jim" Ransom's triple with two on in the sixth won the game for the Bristol team. "Reds" Condit started in the field.

It costs you money every time you don't read Want Ads in The Courier.

ROHM & HAAS WINS OVER LEEDOM TEAM

The Bristol Industrial League resumed activity last evening as the Rohm & Haas team blanked Leedom's, 6-0, on the former's field.

"Jack" Spencer pitched the set of goose-eggs for the chemical mixers, giving up but four hits. He walked but one batter.

Steinbrun led the winners with the club, getting three out of four.
